

It's a way of doing business.

It's a way of solving problems.

It's a way of realizing our potential by helping others realize theirs.

It's The Upside.

At Abbott, we believe that innovative, responsible and sustainable business plays an important role in building a healthy, thriving society. We strive to foster economic, environmental and social well-being through our operations and in our work with others.

It starts with responsible business. Every day, people around the world depend on our products to live healthier lives. That's why we run our business the right way, for the long term – for the benefit of the many people we serve.

But that's just the beginning. We see potential everywhere.

By building a more inclusive business, we aim to reach more people, in more places, than ever before. From strengthening the capacity of suppliers, to creating products that address local-country health needs, we are always finding new opportunities to expand the positive impact of our people, products and business in communities around the world.

We can't tackle every challenge. But what we can do is address the critical issues that best match our scientific expertise, business acumen and unique resources. With ingenuity and compassion, we can work together to find the answers.

Knowledge and optimism are resources that grow in value the more they are shared. Healthy economies contribute to healthy communities. Opportunity is contagious.

At Abbott, we call it “Finding the Upside.”